Wishing you continued success!

You are my first batch of students in NMIMS (handling courses in 1st year and 2nd year). As a first batch you have a special attachment with me. Enjoyed handling sessions of different courses because of the vibrant classroom environment created by you.

Paavan Gangwani
(President)

When you enter a B-school you look upto your seniors and idolise some of them. You try to get insights, know their experiences and understand their journey. When you become senior you switch the roles and now you want to help juniors to make wiser decision or else at least not repeat the same mistake. At the end of the journey only people in it will matter. So be kind and helpful, build network get placement and lastly BELIEVE IN YOURSELF.

Being part of the NMIMS Hyderabad Student Council was a journey of leadership, learning, and growth. Grateful for friendships, faculty mentorship, and teamwork that shaped me. To students—embrace challenges, step out of your comfort zone, and make lasting memories. Success thrives on collaboration, integrity, and unity.

Keep growing and inspiring!

PLACEMENT COMMITTEE

VIVEK TIWARI

As a core member (Coordinator) of the Placement Committee, I played a key role in conducting recruitment drives, liaising with companies, and facilitating interviews. I successfully placed 30 students in my second year and 28 in my first year, earning recognition from the campus administration.

My journey from the Junior to the Senior Placement Committee was marked by resilience, leadership, and continuous growth. This experience sharpened my communication, organizational, and problem-solving skills.

What started as a commitment turned into a passion, driving me to push my limits and achieve excellence.

ARYA ROY CHOWDHURY

Placements are just one milestone in the vast and enriching journey of an MBA. At NMIMS Hyderabad, the true essence of this experience lies in the skills you build, the friendships you forge, and the perspectives you gain.

It's about pushing boundaries, embracing challenges, and evolving into a leader ready to navigate the real world. While securing a great role is important, the real takeaway is the transformation you undergo—so make the most of every discussion, every project, and every opportunity that comes your way.

The placement is a destination, but the journey is what truly defines you.

ADITYA KULKARNI

PlaceCom—a committee that every B-school student aspires to join—marked the beginning of an unforgettable journey. From going through the rigorous JPC selection process to finally earning the SPC tag, these two years have been a rollercoaster of challenges, learning, and personal growth. Transitioning from a mentee to a mentor was a defining moment, giving me the opportunity to share my learnings and carry forward the legacy with pride.

PlaceCom has been more than just a committee—it has shaped my resilience, leadership, and confidence. Every challenge, every late night, and every tough decision helped me grow into a better version of myself. But this is just the starting point, a corporate basecamp, preparing us for the challenges and successes ahead.

Once a PlaceCommer, Always a PlaceCommer

HARSHIL GAMBHIR

Make the most of your MBA journey—this is a once-in-a-lifetime experience! Dive into every opportunity, challenge yourself, and embrace growth in every form. Network, upskill, and refine your professional persona, but don't forget to enjoy the ride. From late-night case studies to placement season jitters, every moment adds to your story.

Your MBA isn't just about landing a job—it's about shaping the best version of yourself, both personally and professionally. So, study hard, have fun, build meaningful connections, and step into the corporate world with confidence. The best investment you can make is in yourself!

So, take risks, learn, laugh, and make this journey truly unforgettable!

KRISHNI GAUTAM

Placements are not just about securing a job—they're about finding the right fit that aligns with your values, strengths, and long-term aspirations. It's a journey of self-discovery, growth, and clarity.

Being a part of the Placement Committee has given me a deeper appreciation for the behind-the-scenes effort that goes into every successful placement season. It has reinforced in me the importance of preparation, persistence, and the power of networking.

The process can be intense and sometimes even overwhelming, but it also builds resilience and sharpens your focus. Each rejection teaches you something; each opportunity helps you grow.

To my peers—keep learning, keep upskilling, and most importantly, stay curious. Wishing you all success and fulfillment in the path you choose to pursue!

NAGA SHALMALI

There are 2 kinds of regrets for every student

- 1. Getting selected in a company offering lower CTC than your batchmates
- 2. Not applying for a company

The first regret is still manageable as its just your first step towards corporates. You can still step up the corporate ladder by putting in more efforts. Don't go for second kind of regret. Apply for all the companies that fit into ur designation.

Don't be choosy behind locations because there will be a possibility of you remaining unplaced till the very end.

PADMASHRI SRIDHAR

Being a part of the Placement Committee has been one of the most enriching experiences of my MBA journey. It's not just a responsibility—it's a platform that accelerates your professional and personal growth. From handling high-pressure situations to managing multiple stakeholders, the committee pushes you to think on your feet and act with clarity. You learn the art of communication, negotiation, and crisis management—all essential in the real world.

It helps develop strong people management skills, teaches you teamwork, and builds resilience. Whether it's coordinating with companies or guiding your peers, every moment is a learning experience.

T

Grateful for the journey, and wishing the next batch all the best!

PRIYANK DAHAKE

One simple yet effective message i would share is that always strive to improve and do better than what you did yesterday.

This minute growth ends up developing your personality to levels which you could not have imagined. Learn from your mistakes, be observant, and as sell yourself in the best manner possible.

In the end, no business runs without sales and the first order of business in a B-School should be to sell yourself in the best manner possible!

Rest, all things will take its course and I wish the entire community the best for this and all other future endeavours!

SEJAL DIXIT

As an SPC member of PlaceCom, my journey at NMIMS Hyderabad has been a mix of learning, challenges, and immense growth. Managing placements is not just about securing jobs, but it is about developing resilience, building networks, and preparing for the ever-evolving corporate world.

To my peers' I'd say- Trust the process, constantly upskill yourself, and be open to the opportunities that come knocking at your door, step out of your comfort zone.

To my juniors and future committee members- This role demands teamwork, dedication, and the ability to handle high-pressure situations. But the experience that comes with is immensely rewarding, it shapes you into a problem solver and a better leader. And remember- your network is your net worth. Build relationships, help each other grow and All the best!

SWAPNIL DATTA

As I near the end of my MBA journey, I want to reflect on my time as a Senior Member of the Placement Committee and share a few thoughts.

To future MBA batches—this journey will reward the effort you invest. Stay proactive, embrace learning, and seek opportunities that align with your goals. Placement season is more than just getting a job; it's about finding the right fit for your aspirations.

To the new Placement Committee team—you hold a vital role. Credibility, persistence, and teamwork will be your greatest strengths. Stay resilient, support your peers, and always maintain the integrity of the process.

The Placement Committee's legacy is built on trust and excellence. Let's keep raising the bar. Wishing you all the very best!

VATSAL BAHETI

Your placement journey is a marathon, not a sprint—one that demands patience, preparation, and persistence. Focus on building the right skill sets, gaining meaningful insights, and staying consistent with your efforts.

Leverage every opportunity that comes your way, whether it's an internship, a project, or a conversation with a mentor. Seek guidance, ask questions, and actively sharpen your industry awareness.

Remember, it's not just about getting placed, but about discovering the role that aligns with your goals and values. Be open to learning from failures—they often lead to the most valuable breakthroughs.

As the Placement Committee, we are committed to supporting and guiding you through this journey. Let's work together to ensure you're not just placed—but placed right.

Wishing you all the very best in your endeavors!
